893. Planet X, the End Times and the 3 days of darkness

Dr. Claudia Albers, Planet X Researcher

The 3 days of darkness is an idea which has become very popular in many circles. The idea is that in the end times, there will come a time when the earth will be in complete darkness for a period of 3 days and 3 nights, and many believe that it will be due to a very large object, Planet X, getting between the Earth and the Sun. Also, many believe that this will be one of the ways that it will be known that we are in the End Times, i.e. in the time just before Jesus returns to Earth, as King and Kings and Lord of Lords. However, we do not need the 3 days of darkness, in order to know that we are in the End Times because the Sun has gone dark and seems to have gone dark for good, by 1998 (see Article 536: Was the Sun already not shining by 1998) [1].

Figure 1. Screenshot from a YouTube video featuring a morning Television program: The image of the Sun used is clearly not of the real Sun, as it has straight lines in its outline and a reddish petal-like structure around it. It is a Sun simulator [1].

Now, the Sun has stopped emitting enough visible light to illuminate the earth and has thus disappeared from earth's skies and has been replaced by sun simulators and a sky simulation system (see Article 723: The Sun is gone: the sky is a simulation) [2]. But the Sun is emitting deadly high energy radiation instead, i.e. x-rays, extreme ultraviolet light (EUV) and gamma rays, so instead of a benign star, the Sun has turned into a destructive star, because of Planet X (see Article 845: The Sun now emits x-rays and EUV versus visible light due to Planet X) [3]. Planet X is the core systems of dead planets and stars that started affecting the Solar System, at the time of the Flood, and thus started changing the Sun at the time of the Flood. This is why the human lifetime started dropping after the Flood. The effects have been increasing for thousands of years, but in recent times, many more Planet X systems, have been coming into the Solar System, that have greatly accelerated the rate, at which the severity of the effects increase.

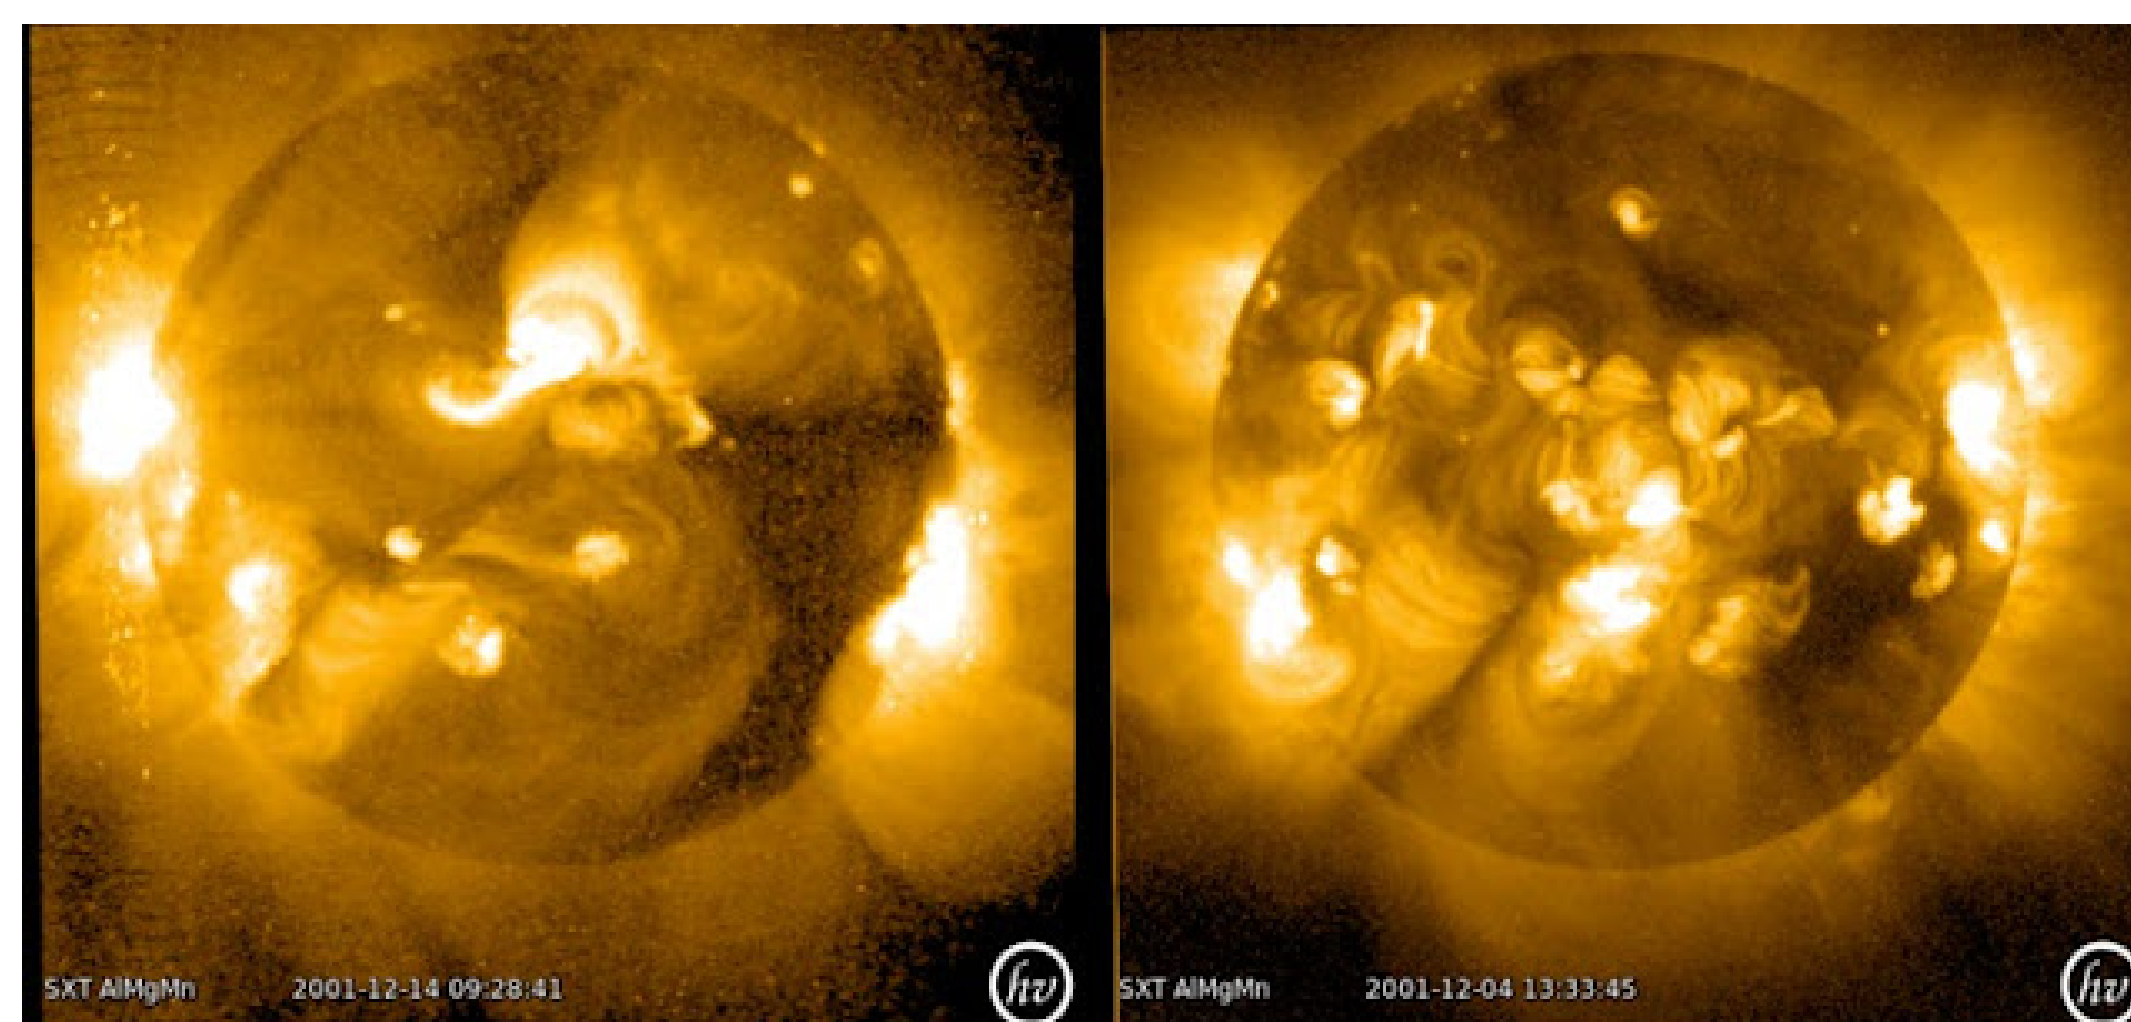

Figure 2. Left: The Sun is seen here violently erupting at several locations on its surface. There is a bright flash on the left side indicating that a fresh matter creation event or eruption is starting. This is what is known as a solar flare. Gases can be seen surrounding the Sun to the sides which appear to be gaseous but must be associated to the eruptions, i.e. it is gaseous plasma. Right: The Sun was erupting even more 10 days before, as we can see even more plasma erupting from volcanoes on the Sun's surface (see Article 828: The Sun has a solid surface and huge volcanoes) [4].

Figure 3. The Sun's surface is covered in huge volcanoes and thus a large scale version of what we see above: Mount Etna, in Italy, erupting. Notice the gaseous plasma rising from the volcano, this is what the Sun's corona is made of now. But this is not how a star is supposed to be, the magma is supposed to remain inside the body of a star and planet, and light emission is supposed to come from its atmosphere and be due to energy flowing from the core, through the surface, and then through the atmosphere. The visible light now emitted by the Sun is due to magma erupting from the Sun's interior, rather than intense visible light emission, from its atmosphere. It is not enough to illuminate the earth.

But even though the Sun is no longer able to illuminate the earth, with visible light, and has thus disappeared from earth's skies, as far as we are concerned, since human beings can only detect visible light, daylight has not stopped because daylight is determined by the earth's own light emission, which causes earth's sky to be blue for about half of each day. This occurs as a result of energy flowing from the earth's core, to the earth's atmosphere, thus showing that earth is just a small version of the Sun, it too emits light (see Article 888: The Sun is gone: Daylight comes from earth's core) [5].

Figure 4. Day suddenly turns to night, on August 12th 2011, in Argentina. This phenomenon where the atmosphere goes dark, over a certain region, does not seem to be due to the Sun simulators turning off but rather due to an interruption, in the flow of energy, from the earth's core, resulting in the light emission illuminating the atmosphere turning off (see Article 890: Day suddenly turns to night: the cause) [6].

Now, since the Sun is no longer shining and daylight comes from inside the earth, the only way that darkness can occur, within the earth's atmosphere, is if energy stops flowing from the earth's core. That has happened, but only at certain locations, never over the whole earth. There were 3 days of darkness just before the children of Israel left Egypt, but only a small region was affected. In recent times, there have also been instances when darkness occurred, but again only over certain regions. In addition, we can know for sure that 3 days (or any amount of time) of darkness, over the whole earth, will not occur because of this scripture:

22 While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease. (Gen. 8:22)

God states in this scripture that day and night will not cease, day is the time when there is daylight, if daylight ceases over the whole earth then day ceases (see Article 889: Planet X and the Bible: daylight and 3 days of darkness) [6]. God cannot and will not allow something that contradicts His Word; darkness over the whole earth contradicts His Word and therefore it cannot happen.

In conclusion, we know we are in the End Times because the Sun has gone dark (in visible light) and periods of darkness over certain parts of the earth are happening due to Planet X, as well as increasingly severe effects which are increasingly destroying the surface of the earth. However, 3 days of darkness, over the whole earth, or any period of darkness, over the whole earth, cannot happen because it contradicts the Word of God.

As I have shown in previous articles, Lucifer merged with a machine of his own creation in an effort to become like God and instead lost his free-will, turning himself into an AI entity driven by the way it interpreted its programmed purpose for existing, which was to be like God, but not having God's ability...
